

ESSEX REBELS PATHWAY

British Basketball League

Competing since 2018

The Essex Rebels women's team joined the professional ranks of the Women's British Basketball League after enjoying success in NBL Division 1, securing National Cup and League titles. One of 11 professional women's basketball teams in the U.K., the squad is composed of players from around the world, as well as talented young players from the Basketball England talent pathway.

NBL

Competing since 2015

The Essex Rebels have two teams taking part in the Basketball England National Basketball League. The Men's 1st team play in NBL Division 1, after securing back-to-back promotions in the 2018-19 and 2019-20 seasons. The Men's 2nd team compete as a development side, with a squad composed of students studying at the University of Essex, as well as younger players from the Essex Rebels Academy.

University of Essex

University of Essex

Basketball scholarships

The University of Essex offers scholarships for talented basketball players for both undergraduate and post-graduate study. A comprehensive package of support services provides one of the best dual-career environments for young players within the U.K.

BUCS

Competitive inter-university sport

Three men's teams, and two women's teams, take part in BUCS competitions. Both first teams play in the Premier South League, in which the women have won back-to-back titles for the last three years.

Essex Rebels Junior Club

Junior NBL competitions

Girls' and boys' junior teams at under 12, 14, 16 and 18 age groups. Teams train and play at the Essex Sport Arena, in a supportive and nurturing environment.

Essex Rebels Play

Rebels Play and Holiday Camps

From age 5 upwards, Rebels Slam Jam sessions and Holiday Camps provide an exciting and fun introduction to basketball. The Rebels Roadshow sees senior team players and staff delivering engaging school assemblies and P.E. sessions.

Rebels Roadshow

School Visits

This initiative gives children in our community an opportunity to meet professional athletes, who provide an inspiring, engaging, and fun experience to them. We focus on inclusivity and positive participation, encouraging all children to try their best and work together.

The Rebels Roadshow is available, for free, to all schools in and around Colchester and the wider Essex area.
